

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

- A method of calculating the size of a human face in a digital image, includes the steps of: providing image capture metadata associated with a digital image that includes the image of a human face, the metadata including
- 5 subject distance, focal length, focal plane resolution; providing a standard face dimension; and calculating the size of a human face at the focal plane using the metadata and the standard face size.

20250320 15:48:00